

Welcome to Parthotel Bielefeld | Restaurant Milser Krug

About us

A journey through time from Napoleon to today:

Once a customs station between the French Empire and Westphalia, the „Milser Kurg“ was for many years a place where horse and riders could stop, where the traveler had to pay his toll and people met for a chat and perhaps already had a beer or other drink. customs station was then the place where news and news were spread and a place that provided the rural population with gossip & information from the big cities. In the late 19th century, people learned in their limited free time "to treat themselves to something" and to meet in public places or rooms. Thus, after going to church on Sundays, the visit to the innkeeper of the village became modern. A "gastronomy" slowly developed. The "Gastwirtfamilie Böcker" had recognized this and continued to expand the offer. But things for daily life were also sold. A large room - the hall - for announcements and meetings of any kind was built. Whether private, political or sporting - the intended use has been adapted to demand. Eleven siblings were born into the new 20th century, all of whom learned other professions and made different careers - but one thing united them - they were always there when they had to work in the Milser Krug. Two world wars have largely spared the "Milser Krug". The trained tailor Wilhelm Böcker with his wife Elise Böcker, née Berkenkamp, took over the house between the two wars. After the 2nd World War, the two turned the Milser Krug into a popular restaurant. They succeeded in making the name and the good reputation of the house known beyond the borders of Bielefeld. Both have hosted countless weddings, receptions, anniversaries or other festive occasions.

The beautiful hall and various club rooms, as well as a good home-style cuisine, formed the framework for all sorts of beautiful parties. Especially after the turmoil of the war, there were many dance events – many a wedding couple had met in the "Milser Krug while dancing".

In the next generation, Ilse Böcker set culinary accents in the Milser Krug. The trained cook and hostess brought her skills to the company. From then on, the menu became national and international. With great attention to detail, the rooms were embellished again and again and adapted to the zeitgeist. For decades, our guests have associated the traditional name "Milser Krug" with good quality in a relaxed atmosphere. (in 2020 Mrs. Ilse Böcker passed away - at this point we thank the Dorothee Sölle House, which was never alone even in the difficult time of the pandemic Mrs. Böcker)

The way to the Parkhotel Bielefeld ****

The new millennium began again with a family change. With many ideas and a high degree of courage and ambition, Ilse Böcker's nephew, Bert Störmer and his wife Imke, née Heiland, took over the fortunes of the jug. After the two had left several professional stations behind, the couple decided to make the Milser Krug fit for the new millennium.

The entire house has been extensively renovated. The hall became a glamorous ballroom, the winter garden got a Mediterranean touch.

A good two years later, the Störmers realized a long-cherished wish:

On May 25, 2002, they opened the Parkhotel Bielefeld.

For the first time, a hotel in Bielefeld deserves the name Boutique Hotel, because not only international standards were taken into account in the furnishing of the rooms, each room is unique. This is how true living dreams were created on the outskirts of Bielefeld. Fine curtains and beautiful carpets, paired with valuable accessories make every hotel room an oasis of cosiness. (Sadly, Imke Störmer - a soul of the house - passed away in 2011)

The change:

In 2020 & 2021, we were all surprised by the corona pandemic and the world, especially the hotel world, suddenly came to a standstill. We immediately realized that we all had to rethink. During the period of standstill, we looked for and found new ideas. We have reduced and embellished ourselves. All rooms have been extensively renovated. The wellness area including sauna has been renewed and the restaurant has received new carpets, floors and new furniture. The former ballroom is now our large, modern restaurant and the conservatory - a dream in red - is our salon for beautiful family celebrations up to 20 people. The hotel lobby and the meeting room have also been redesigned. We are proud that our employees have all helped diligently. Together with the traditional Dortmund company Withöft und Sohn (www.withoeft.com), we have implemented all this.

But one thing we have not forgotten during the whole time: We were and have opened every day for the people who had to work and stay overnight despite the pandemic. With us, everyone will find a safe hotel, including a restaurant that takes into account the distance, but preserves the cordiality.

For the change of Jagres 2021/2022, we have added two themed suites and an apartment to our portfolio. The suites Paris & Marilyn Monroe are located in the "new building", the apartment Marrakech in the historic part of our house. The first occupancy for our apartment was made by people from Ukraine - we made our apartment available to these people free of charge - just to help a little.

Meanwhile there are about 150 close relatives who find their roots in the Milser Krug - we thank everyone that they always find their way to us and thus the spirit of our past generations is always present!

For over 300 years we have been welcoming people from here and from all over the world.

According to the countless stories of our ancestors, Napoleon was already a guest of our house. Over the past 20 years, politicians, actors, musicians, people of all countries, all faiths and attitudes to life have stayed with us – from this point of view, we have always been an international and cosmopolitan house.

Everyone is welcome who treats our world with respect and understanding.

These efforts have been rewarded for 20 years with 4 stars from the German Hotel and Restaurant
